Auction!!

We will be holding our first auction this Friday. Students have been earning a salary everyday in class. Sometimes they have had to pay fines for talking/not doing assignments. Students are eager to spend their money. It would be wonderful if every student could donate one item for the auction. These items do not have to be new. Remember one man's trash is another man's treasure.

Accelerated Reader

Congratulations to Adam Johnson for being the leader with 13 points! Students should be reading their AR books nightly. Parents please ask your child how many points they currently have. Each student should have at least 8 points and should earn at least 1 point per week.

Field Trip Cancelled

We will not be going to the Theatre on the Square to see the "True Story of the Three Little Pigs". Our grade level simply did not collect enough donation money to make the trip expenses. The current donations will go toward the funding of an in house presentation and the field trip in February. If you have not sent in a donation for our field trip, please do. We still need funds for the field trip in February.

THINGS TO DO THIS WEEK

1. The next time you look in the mirror say something positive about yourself.
2. Show appreciation for someone's point of view. Say something like "Hey, that is a cool idea."
3. Think of a limiting paradigm you might have of yourself, such as "I'm not outgoing." Now do something that totally contradicts that paradigm.
4. When you have nothing to do, what is it that occupies your thoughts? Remember, whatever is most important to you will become your life-center.
5. The Golden Rule rules! Begin today to treat others as you would want them to treat you. Don't be impatient, complain about leftovers, or talk bad about someone, unless you want the same treatment.
6. Sometime soon, find a quiet place where you can be alone. Think about what matters most to you.
7. Listen carefully to the lyrics of the music you listen to most frequently. See if they are in harmony with the principles you believe in.
8. When you do your chores at home or work tonight, try out the principle of hard work. Go the extra mile and do more than is expected.
9. The next time you are in a tough situation and don't know what to do, ask yourself, "What principle should I apply (honesty, love, loyalty, hard work, patience)?" Now, follow the principle and don't look back.

Parents please provide a healthy snack for your child.

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter. There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Once you have chosen an image, place it close to the article. Be sure to place the caption of the image near the image.

One benefit of using your newsletter as a promotional tool is that you can reuse content from other marketing materials, such as press releases, market studies, and reports.

While your main goal of distributing a newsletter might be to sell your product or service, the key to a successful newsletter is making it useful to your readers.

A great way to add useful content to your newsletter is to develop and write your own articles, or include a calendar of upcoming events or a special offer that promotes a new product.

You can also research articles or find “filler” articles by accessing the World Wide Web. You can write about a variety of topics but try to keep your articles short.

Much of the content you put in your newsletter can also be used for your Web site. Microsoft Publisher offers a simple way to convert your newsletter to a Web publication. So, when you’re finished writing your newsletter, convert it to a Web site and post it.

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

Some newsletters include a column that is updated every issue, for instance, an advice column, a book review, a letter from the president, or an editorial. You can also profile new employees or top customers or vendors.

Your business tag line here.

This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.

BACK PAGE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it's a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you've received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you've created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

If space is available, this is a good place to insert a clip art image or some other graphic.
